

Substitute Management System Interface

Centralize data and streamline processes.
Quickly. Easily. Seamlessly.

From sick days to extended leave, teacher absences have a significant impact on both student achievement levels and already-tight district budgets. That's why absence management is so important in K-12 education. But manual or semi-automated processes can make it difficult to effectively manage employee absences and leaves. As a result, many districts face growing compliance risks as well as large lump-sum payouts for unused leave.

By systematically tracking and managing employee absences using integrated, fully automated solutions, K-12 school districts like yours can better control labor costs, lower compliance risk, and minimize the impact of teacher absences on student performance. And when a substitute is needed, actual time is tracked and paid based on hours worked — which helps you comply with the Affordable Care Act (ACA) regulations.

How does it work?

The Kronos® substitute management system interface enables seamless transfer of absence information from your substitute management system to your Kronos workforce management solution. Once your substitute management system identifies an available and qualified replacement, Kronos imports the absence information — including employee ID, date, and absence type — and automatically enforces absence rules and triggers approval by employees, managers, and principals. Once the substitute clocks in, the substitute and teacher are linked in the system tracker. Both teacher and substitute schedules and time cards are updated, and actual time worked by the substitute is tracked for proper fund allocation. The interface can also be configured to transfer substitute rates, assigned substitute, campus/location, and work order so you can track costs, identify patterns and trends, and flag short- and long-term absences.
