The Interface That Does the Work for You

Now you can share data and streamline processes quickly, easily, and seamlessly through one integrated solution. The Kronos® Workforce TeleStaff™/ Workforce Ready® interface enables you to extend the benefits of workforce management to your entire organization — across all departments — through one integrated platform. This interface simplifies the exchange of employee, accrual, and time-entry data to easily unify systems, saving your valuable resources significant time and effort. The result: a streamlined workflow that reduces errors and decreases the waiting time for access to information.

How does it work?

The interface uses predefined data fields ready for import and export to make easy work of pulling and passing employee, accrual, and time-entry data — saving your resources the time-consuming work of dual data entry. The application programming interface (API) enables applications to communicate with each other and transfer data.
